ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A single layered electrophotographic photoreceptor includes a photosensitive layer having having at least a charge generating material, a charge transport material and a binder on a conductive support, wherein the charge generating material is amorphous titanylphthalocyanine, and the photosensitive layer is a hindered phenol compound and/or hindered amine compound.